In general, treatment of the disease is as follows: during the acute stage, which lasts two weeks, the treatment is the same as for any ill person. As soon as possible, physical therapy is employed to keep the muscles healthy and to re-establish the patient's cognizance of muscle function. Pool therapy, exercise, massage and electrical stimulation may also be part of the program for keeping muscles healthy awaiting the resumption of nerve impulses.

Although 75 % of the patients usually recover without any handicaps there are some who will remain with varying degrees of paralysis despite modern treatments. Even for these unfortunate 25 percent modern surgery can do much to restore them to healthy active citizens.

What can we do to guard our children and the children of others from this disease? Medical experts advance the following suggestions:

- (1) Avoid contact with known cases of polio.
- (2) Keep out of crowds during an epidemic.
- (3) Do not swim in polluted water, avoid chilling by staying too long in the water.
- (4) Avoid physical fatigue and exhaustion.

haunt.
(5) Keep hands clean by washing before meals and after going to the toilet.
(6) Keep garbage and waste covered so as not to attract flies.
(7) Protect food from exposure to flies and insects.
(8) Wash fresh fruit and new vegetables before eating.
(9) Avoid operations for removal of tonsils and adenoids during a polio epidemic.
(10) Remember that stomach flu, summer complaint, dysentery or any infection of the bowels may predispose to a polio infection.
Be on the alert for symptoms. Any infection during a polio epidemic should be viewed suspiciously until proven that it is NOT polio. If suspicious symptoms do occur, or when in doubt CALL YOUR DOCTOR.
